"I love Leigh Oliver's White Queso with Green Chiles. I like the spinach too, and my hubby likes the white queso with roasted jalapenos. Since I found Leigh Oliver's, we are never without a jar in the house. Actually, we have a '3 jars a week' habit. I'm addicted!"

"And yes, the cheating was worth it. This stuff is addicting to say the least. In fact, I may even make it AGAIN this week. That is how much I love it! Eazy Breezy also, gotta love that."

"Leigh Oliver's All-Natural White Queso with Green Chiles-This is sooo good! Great with some tortilla chips for just an easy dip (with a little bit of heating up) or as an ingredient in a more elaborate dip. We mixed it with some refried beans and Ro-Tel for some deliciously cheesy dip with a little bit of spice to it. I think it would also be really good for a burrito or enchiladas. Or on a burger or even as a pasta sauce. They make it with white American cheese, fresh green chiles, and roasted jalapenos. It ends up having a nice, mild cheese flavor and a creamy consistency and then the fresh green chiles and roasted jalapenos give it just the right amount of fire. And this is really all-natural; there's nothing in the list of ingredients that you can't pronounce. I'm sure that I could make this and save a decent bit of the price, but sometimes it is nice to just have something prepared that you can grab and cut down on your prep time a little bit."
